Forest fires have been raging flercely in this section for the past week, especially on the range of East Mountain, opposite Dixon. Pully one hundred of our citizens attended the monumental ceremonies at Tunkhannock Tuesday. The monument stands forty feet high, and is one of the finest in Northeastern Pennsy. vania. It cost the county commissionwas nine thousand dollars, and no tax payer will have to pay any special tax on account of it being purchased. The contract calls for twenty-two hundred dollars upon the completion, and the acceptance of the monument, and twenty-two hundred dollars per year until paid for. This method of paying for it will be very easy and will not require the levying of any special tax. Professor Hully is at Honesdale this week, attending the session of Baptist Ministers' union new being held

TUNKHANNOCK.

About 5,900 people were in town on Tuesday to witness the unveiling of the Soldiers' and Sallors' monument, There were about ten G. A. P. posts and five bands in the narade. Addresses were made by C. O.Dershimer, of Tunkhannock and Judg · Alfred Darte, of Kings-

During the dedicatory exercises Tuesday afternoon an alarm of fire was sounded, which proved to be in the rear of George Dewitt's house on Bridge street. The Triton Hose company responded promptly and the flames were soon extinguished. The crowd deserted the court house grounds at the sound of the alarm. S. Baldwin Stark, of Scranton, was in town recently, A well-organized band of pickpockets worked the town on Tuesday. Mrs Aaron Brown lost $10 and many strangers lost smaller sums. The rame gang tried to rob the postoffice money order drawer about 6 o'clock in the evening, but were not successful, J. S. Swisher and wife, of Scranton, have been in town for a few days.

NICHOLSON.

A great number from Nieholson and Vicinity attended the unveiling of the Soldiers' and Saitors' monument at Tunkhannock on Tuesday. Mrs. Sarah J. Williams received news on Monday of the death of her youngest sister in New York. Mrs. W. C. Lard, who has been seriously ill for the past week, is thought to be slightly improved. On Wednesday, before Justice of the Peace McKinney, Stephen Ingham, on information of Charles Underhill, was put under bonds to keep the peace. Mrs. H. G. Mack and son Louic are visiting friends in Scranton this week.

Well-Known Citizen of Rush Goes Out to His Barn to Husk Corn and Is Found Some Hours Later Dying from the Effects of Wounds Inflicted by a Cruel Assassin.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Montrose, Oct. 20 .- The little hamlet of Rush is known to the residents of Susquehanna county as the Sleepy Hollow of this section. The town itself reminds one of an old Hudson river burg, and the side walls of the bills bank the valley through which beautiful Wyalusing creck winds in classic symphony are beginning to asume the sere and yellow leaf.

In a pretty farm house located on the side hill, west of the Auburn road, ies an old man clasped in the arms of death. His aged features are drawn in the lines of death. His lineaments evidence peace, for he has passed into that state where the heart still throbs in weak pulsations, but consciousness has long departed.

Again has the murderer's hand been thrust against the fair name of Susjuchanna; again has a respected and beloved citizen, a man devoid of enemies and with an entire township of friends, been the mark of the dastardly hand of the assassin.

LIVED ON AUBURN ROAD.

"Uncle Jack" Pepper was sixty-eight cears of age; he lived with his step mother on the Aubura road, about half a mile from Snyder's hotel. Yesterday afternoon "Aunt Sallie" Pepper went to the village, a short distance, and returned in time to prepare tea. "Uncle Jack" was in excellent spirits and after the evening meal, in his exuberance said: "I am going over to the barn and husk some corn." He lighted a lantern and in his "rowdy," a light pen jacket, wended his way from the farm house down the beaten path, across the road to the barn, which stands alongside the beaten thorough fare. This was between 6 and 7 o'clock. "Aunt Sallie," after having cleansed the dishes, retired and for a while slept ninety years of age, and her efforts for the day had exceeded her ordinary labors, for she was very tired. She awoke at about half-past eight or nine o'clock and in looking into the outer room noticed the lantern did not hang in its accustomed place. arose, dressed and went to the barn. She saw no light of his lantern and looked around, but owing to darkness soundly, as she is an old woman over saw nothing. She returned to the house, filled ar old lantern with oil and went again to the barn. The sight which met her gaze was awful in its entirety. There lay Uncle Jack, his head battered and cruised beyond recognition and resting on a loose pile of husked corn stalks. By his side a deep, red pool of blood marked the spot where his head had rested when punishment had been inflicted. The thills of the buggy had been spattered with blood and the adjacent crisp white corn husks were dyed a deep crimson.

The weapon used was lying near the pool of blood-an old whiffletree from which protruded an iron nail and the steel clasp. An ugly, bloody weapon, clearly the weapon of a hellish flend.

GAVE THE ALARM.

"Aunt Sallie" immediately ran as fast as possible to Oliver Wilbur's, her nearest neighbor, and gave the alarm. Mr. Wilbur states that she aroused him at 10 o'clock, "Uncle Jack" Pepper still lived and Dr. Warner did all that science and medicine could do to preserve the life of the injured man. He was unconscious when found, and never again regained a normal state, and at five minutes before 3 o'clock today he died. His death was without a struggle, and he died as he had lived

There are many theories rife as to now and in what manner he was attacked, and who attacked him. District Attorney William D. B. Ainey was at the scene as soon as the writer, and his research is covering every possible point

I have just returned from Rush and my opinion is that he was seated on his haunches husking corn, his lan-tern hung from a fork handle which protruded from a bag of hay. Pepper, struggled and undoubtedseized the whiffletree used to prop and hold open the barn door, and entering he mercilessly beat out old Jack Pepper's brains.

WYOMING MEMORIAL.

Unveiling of Soldiers' and Sailors'

Monument at Tunkhannock. special to the Scranton Tribune.

Tunkhannock, Pa., Oct. 20.—Tuesday as a red-letter day for Tunkhannock and Wyoming county, and one that will ong be remembered by the veterans of the late war. The occasion for this nemorable day was the unveiling of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in the centre of the court house square. Sitnated in the beautiful little hamlet of Tunkhannock, the county seat of Wyo-ming county. Along in the early part of the morning, crowds of people began to come in from the surrounding country with bands of enticing music, till long before the hour for the parade,

A search of Pepper's clothing re-vealed $50, which had not been disturbed. It is the theory of the author-ities that he was attacked with the intention of robbing him and then looting the house, but that the thieves were frightened away before they could carry out their purpose. Pepper had the reputation of carrying considerable money about him and was in the habit of keeping money about the then was estimated to be fully seven thousand people in the throngs that nearly blocked the thoroughfares. Even the soldier on the top of the monument, hearing the "Stars and Stripes," had a satisfied smile on his countenance, as he looked down upon "Uncle Sam" as he headed the procession in the parade. The parade, com-posed of firemen, G. A. R. men, P. O. S, of A, and other civic societies, started at 1.30 prompt, and after parading the principal streets, were lined up in the court house square in front of the monument and dismissed. The exercises at the monument consisted of peeches, unveiling of the monument, tc. P. H. Campbell, esq., of Wilkes-Barre, read a letter of regret from Hon. T. V. Powderly, of Scranton, and speeches were made by C. O. Ders-himer, esq., James W. Piatt, esq., of Tunkhannock, and Judge Alfred Darte, of Wilkes-Barre, the latter being the chief orator of the day, after which the unveiling took place. Cheer after cheer went up as the "Stars and Stripes" were unwound from the monument that stands today and will stand a hundred years from now, a silent re-minder and an honorary tribute to the eroes of Wyoming county, who sacrificed their lives and homes for the preservation of the Union from 1861 to

BUNCOERS ABROAD : BEWARE !

It is the trick of the Bryanized Democracy this fall to make false charges against Republican methods, raise a big dust, hire Republican malcontents to organize Republican bolts and then coax individual Republicans to desert their party on the representation that "party ties needn't count for anything in an off year." By this trick, if it shall work, the Bryanites will get a footbold for a hopeful fight. so much more trouble for McKinley, the Republican congress and the cause of sound morey.

You now see through this trick. Are you going to let it work?

Many of the professional traders have concluded that liquidation has about run its course and there has been a cessation of the bear campaign. Opinions have differed among the professionals as to whether conditions in the stock market are ready for a sustained advance in prices again. The bears made an abortive attempt early in the day to raid the market and directed an attack against Sugar and Chicago Gas. The failure of the raid encourin national campaigns, and make just | aged the buils to aggressive action and there were indications of the reappearance in the market of some of the large buying interests which were prominent in the late rise. But the bulls were apparently satisfied with a short turn and they commenced to sell to realize profits about half an hour before the close. This carried prices down in some casts below last night's close, and where net gains remained they were in almost all cases fractional. The success of the bears was frustrated in part owing to the special strength in Sugar and Chicago Gas, upon which they relied to work a sympathetic decline in the balance of the list. Total sales were 402,-200 shares,
